¹ Metropolitan areas as defined in 2003

² Residual change is not a directly-measured component. It is developed by subtracting the other components from population change. Most of residual change is domestic migration but the Census Bureau has no accurate way to quantify it. This component is influenced by any inaccuracies in the other four components, or in any data entering the method.

Note: Change is calculated from the April 1, 2000 estimates base. The estimates base includes modifications to the Census 2000 Population as documented in the Count Question Resolution program, updates from the Boundary and Annexation Survey, and geographic program revisions. Caution is urged in making year-to-year comparisons of population estimates. When the Census Bureau releases new population estimates for the current year, it also revises estimates for previous years in the decade.
